Judge Person is dead.

George Peabody is dead.

Judge Tourgee dismissed the Jury Monday night and left for Greensboro.

In our next we intend publishing the report of the Tobacco Trade in Danville which should be read with careful attention by our readers.

They put the U. S. Troops to quarters in one of the College buildings at Chap 1 Hill, and as the troops went in 10 of the students moved out, and the devil is to pay at the "Hill."

Mr. Thos. J. Freeland—a compositor in this office—has been made a Vice President for Orange County of the Border Agricultural Society which hold its fairs annually in the town of Danville.

We refer to Thos. J. Latham and Webb and Rountree of Newbern as to the high character of the houses we advertise in that city. They are Gates and Green; D. T. Carraway; J. J. Wolfender; remember the names.

We thank Col. Fremont of the Wilmington and Weldon road for an annual membership of the Cape Fear Association, of which he is President. We think many from this section will attend the approaching Fair at Wilmington. It will be well worth seeing.

William R. Berkley, of Prince Edward county, Va., has been appointed a notary public by Gov. Walker. This gentleman used to teach School in Milton, R. v. P. B. Henson we see noticed figuring in a Baptist Convention at St. Louis. He is preaching now in Philadelphia. He too used to teach school.

This space is paid for by Fleming
the Worm Confection Man.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE Advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c. The object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription, will please address:
Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON,
Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience, can do so by addressing, in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN,
No. 42 Cedar street, New York.

NEW GOODS, Good Goods AND CHEAP GOODS. Great Bargains in Goods AT TINNIN'S.

COME and see, and if you are not satisfied that I will sell you goods as low, or lower than you can buy in the place then buy elsewhere. But if convinced that what I tell you is true (which an examination will show) why then Tinnin's is the place to go. I am just receiving and opening my Fall and Winter Stock of Goods which I offer low. As low as any living man, any and everything you want.

Hats! Hats! Hats!!!
Hats at cost for the next sixty days. I mean what I say; if you don't believe it come and see.

I have also a large and splendid stock of heavy Winter Boots and shoes; something that will keep your feet dry and do you service. Shoes as good as any body's and decidedly the cheapest in the place. Call and examine my stock of shoes before you buy. Woman's Shoes from $1.25. Boy's and Men's very low.

Good heavy 3-4, 4-4 shirting at 12 1/2 a lb. Calicoes, Delaines &c., in proportion. A large stock of Fancy Cassimeres, Sateens, Kentucky Jeans, Flannels, Linsey, checked Homespun &c. Come and see the prices, and then buy. The world can't beat that excellent Cheese and good Coffee at Tinnin's for a quarter. Remember I sell strictly for Cash or Barter. Cash means the money down. Feeling thankful for your liberal patronage in the past I hope to merit a continuance of the same.

T. D. TINNIN.

NEW CROCKERY HOUSE!
To the Trade of Virginia & North Carolina

We have opened in Norfolk on Main Street, opposite the Post Office, the largest and most complete stock of

China, Crockery Silver Plated Ware, Glass Ware and House

Furnishing Goods.
It has ever been the pleasure of any one to offer to the Trade. Our stock is of

OUR OWN IMPORTATION
and bought of the Manufacturers direct on a dull and depressed market, which enables us to sell at the Trade at much lower figures than they have had of late.

Our stock is COMPLETE.
and one of our best features is that we sell at a complete assortment such as is usually kept by first class wholesale and retail crockery, china and glass ware houses.

Very respectfully,

The Richmond Fair.

Everybody was at the Richmond Fair. There were 10 visitors from Milton. A great many were there from Danville. Five visitors were in attendance from this place. The Diamond Twins and a two legged colt and a very heavy fat woman and a petrified man were there under side shows. There was a giant horse there. The biggest dappled gray with great, long, flowing, white mane. There was a big ox there. He weighed three thousand. A man standing up could just reach his hip with the chin. There were non-setting hens there. Coal and with white mouths. And there were cow-boys as large as two geese and whose were a sight bigger than any you ever saw. There was a bonnet there—strings and all—made entirely out of a tobacco leaf. Did you ever? There was beautiful embroidery work there. Life like pictures of a large Newfoundland dog sleeping on a rug; Washington in his study; and Christ being taken from the cross. The designs were beautifully wrought and the work was done by young ladies of the Catholic training in Richmond. There were fine hogs there—some of them said to have measured 5 feet high and 6 feet long. Then there was machinery of all sorts from all parts of the country, and from the most elegant, and vegetables the largest and finest.

You never did see such a crowd at a Fair. We observed many happy meetings. For instance:—there was a young man named John that met all of his country kindred he hadn't seen for many a day. Lots of others did the same thing. And while they laughed and chatted and howled, the sun shone brightly, the hands were playing, horses prancing, machines running, cattle feeding, and great big hogs lying in their beds asleep. "I felt so happy I don't know how." The girls all looked well and were dressed well. Black worsted was the prevailing dress; and Arab shawls—red striped plaid looking stuff—were all the rage. One lady had a shawl of this sort pinned up behind with a large brooch and the two ends parted and hanging in front of her. Another lady had on a plain red flannel bodice to a silk shirt. But one case of the simple pure "bead" we saw and that young woman looked like she "was tired of living here." One chap we saw with breeches so tight that a wag hollowed at him "to unbutton his suspenders or he'd split himself in the middle."

This gentleman who is a Virginian but who hails from Charlotte, N. C., delivered the address before the society on Thursday night. The old gentleman has a wise colored complexion, a long nose that flattens and spreads at the nostrils, a blue eye, heavy and falsetto proportions, and a mouth with a long white mustache whose ends hang below his chin in the shape of a horse shoe. His address was scholarly and classic and pretty. But too full of the toughness of old age and the croaking of complaint. It wasn't practical nor agricultural enough.

At the appointed Thursday night was a brilliant affair. Luck had everything arranged in style. The music was excellent; the dancing superb. Locked in each other's arms the dancers were whirling round like tops, and the flash on the maiden's cheek, the glare in her eye, the flutter of her silk and spangles, the peeping and pattering of her snow white slippers, and the band with the fife and the violin and the kettle drum playing "Those beautiful eyes of thine, love"—all went merry as a marriage bell—and we could hardly refrain from asking in our rough and rustic style one of those light and feathery nymphs to "come round with us like a gate."

The Fair was a splendid success.

A Curiosity.

There are as many people South as are North and some as good folks north as you'll find south. Let me take a instance. Mr. Boyd of Rockingham gave me as noble sons in the Confederate cause as ever were a sword or led a legion. All three now sleep home—grave by grave, side by side. In 1864 as

Mr. Boyd was bringing the remains of his son home, who was the gallant Colonel of the 45th Regt. and was killed at Spottsylvania on the 19th May) a plank

the bottom of the box got loose and the body had come very offensive, inasmuch that the Conductor

the Southside road when the train had got to the section spoke to the old gentleman in this insulting tone: "You had better bury that corpse for I'll damned if it shall come on this car again." Here the mean man south.

Now let's see how the same old gentleman was treated north about the same thing. He had lost an son—Captain Boyd who fell at Gettysburg fight—that fight of death—and as soon as the war ended in 1865 he went to Gettysburg after the remains of his son. The citizens of Gettysburg were as kind to him as they could be. He asked the man who owned his son's grave and on whose ground he buried—what he owed him. The man said nothing just as Mr. B. pleased. He paid ten dollars. And the citizens getting wind of the man had charged him ten dollars—they about to mob the man had not Mr. Boyd told that he had made him take the money. Now

When Mr. Boyd left with the body of his son boxed and expressed through there followed him some four or five of the citizens of the town. They all got off at the Junction a place about 50 miles from Gettysburg where they change cars. Here the express man refused to let the dead body be put a-board. He said to Mr. Boyd "that no dam corpse should come on that car." And then these men sitting near by on the ground rose up and said to this brute of a man "By—! sir! it shall go!" And they ran and seized the box and shoved it in the car by force, and as the whistle blew they bolted at Mr. Boyd to "hip aboard we'll hand your carpet-bag to you." And they ran by the side of the car and did hand it. No. There are excellent people north. And good and bad in both sections.

GENTLEMEN:—A few facts and figures are necessary to refute the false charges, assertions and statements of various editors and others in relation to the proposition to lease the North Carolina Railroad. I will not trouble myself to answer in detail the many editorials of men who know nothing of what they write, who make assertions devoid of proof, and point to conclusions not justified by reason, and who have in all their writings shown no ability to handle the subject, or give information to the public.

First: The Sentinel asserts that the Directors had executed and delivered a certain contract to the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, leasing the North Carolina Railroad, not subject to the ratification of the stockholders. I do not pretend to give his exact words, but this is the substance. The statement is utterly untrue.

These are the facts: the Directors authorized me to enter into contract with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company leasing the North Carolina at no less than two hundred and forty thousand dollars a year. I, of course, would get as much as possible, but was not authorized to take less. I have not signed, sealed and delivered any contract, but have been waiting for propositions from a responsible source, intending to close the contract with no one until it was ratified by the stockholders, and for this reason the meeting of the 11th November was called. Why, but for their endorsement did the Directors call a meeting of the stockholders.

We will notice Mr. Turner's administration, which I am free to confess was far more successful than any previous one had been, and a disposition on his part to parade it is really pardonable. But it was not altogether so profitable to the corporation as he would have the public believe. He asserts that during the fiscal year of his administration the road cleared three hundred and sixteen thousand six hundred and thirty-eight dollars and eighty-one cents. Let us proceed to prove this assertion unfounded. We will take the annual report of Mr. Turner's administration, and examine on pages 44 and 45, and it will plainly show that the

Receipts from all sources were $585,411 09

The total expenses 508,326 43

Leaving as net income $76,884 43

Upon the strength of which his

Directors gave you a Scrip

Dividend of $240,000 00

Which left his administration

in debt $163,115 54

So much for my friend Turner.

I will now notice briefly the remarks of my friend Pike. He comes out with a flaming heading, "Conspiracy to lease the North Carolina Railroad." Mr. Pike goes on to argue that this will make a great through route North and South, and says it would work a loss to the Company of sixty or one hundred thousand dollars a year. In the first place we want a great through route through the State. It will enhance the value of your property and build up your State. His argument is the strongest I have seen for the lease. But as to losing sixty to one hundred thousand dollars by the operation let the figures above cited speak. He states that if this lease is effected "up goes the freight and passenger tariff." Read the contract, Mr. Pike, find out something of what you write about, and you will see that the tariff of freight and passengers cannot be increased. And Mr. Welker reports that he was not notified of the meeting of the Board, and therefore there was something wrong on foot, is the inference intended. Now, Mr. Welker knows that this was a regular meeting established by the By-Laws of the company. And this being an important meeting, notice was sent to him.

HOW HOSTETTER'S BITTERS CURE DYSPEPSIA.

THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUTSHELL.

The office of the stomach is to convert the food into a cream-like semi-fluid, called CHYLE. This is effected partly by the action of a solvent, called the gastric juice, which exudes from the coating of the stomach, and partly by a mechanical movement of that organ, which churns, as it were, the dissolving aliment. The CHYLE passes from the stomach into the duodenum, or entrance to the bowels, where it is subjected to the action of the bile, and the nutritious portion of it converted into a fluid called CHYLE, which eventually becomes blood.

Now, it is evident that if the great solvent, the gastric juice, is not produced in sufficient quantity, or if the mechanical action of the stomach is so sufficiently brisk, the first process of digestion will be imperfectly performed. It is also clear that if the liver, which plays such an important part in changing the nourishing portion of the chyme into the material blood, is congested, or in any unnatural condition, the second process will not be thoroughly accomplished. The result of the two failures is dyspepsia, complicated with biliousness.

The mode in which HOSTETTER'S BITTERS operate in such cases is this: they invigorate the cellular membrane of the stomach, which evolves the gastric juice, thereby insuring an ample sufficiency of the fluid to completely dissolve the food. They also act upon the nerves of the stomach, causing an acceleration of the mechanical movement necessary to reduce the food to a homogeneous mass. They also act specifically upon the liver, strengthening it, and so enabling it to produce an ample and regular supply of bile, for the purpose of converting the nutritious particles of the chyme into chyle, and from it the passage through the bowels of the useless debris.

In this way, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS cure dyspepsia and liver complaint. The explanation is plain, simple, philosophical, and true.

POISON OAK.—Professor G. Dowell, in the Galveston Medical Journal, recommends in cases of poisoning by Rhus Toxicodendron, and other poisonous species of the Rhus, to bathe the parts with a solution of caustic potash, sufficiently strong to render the skin soapy. This "never failed to cure immediately," although he has used it in hundreds of cases, including himself. The potash is used in the proportion of ten grains to the ounce of water, but may be increased in strength as needed.

NOVEL MODE OF TYING HORSES.—Icelanders have a curious custom, and a most effectual one, of preventing horses from straying. Two gentlemen, for instance, are riding together without attendants, and, wishing to alight for the purpose of visiting some objects at a distance from the road, they tie the tail of one horse to the head of the other, and the head of this to the tail of the former. In this state, it is utterly impossible that they can move either backwards or forwards, one pulling one way and the other the reverse; and therefore, if disposed to move at all, it will be only in a circle, and even then there must be an agreement to have their heads in the same direction. —Metropolitan Record.

GREASE YOUR WHEELS.—"Some persons may not be aware," says Hicover, in his work, Biped and Quadruped, "that the trifling neglect of a pair of wheels being comparatively dry or well greased, will cause twenty miles to take far more work out of a horse than forty would in the latter case; yet wheels absolutely screaming from dryness are often seen and heard attached to carts and wagons; and this would the brute in human form let them scream till he had finished his journey's end or his day's work, though his horses were drawing, from such cause, at least one ton in four of resistance more than they would if the defect were attended to." —For. Press.

It must be apparent to every reflecting person that the material around about a fruit tree, which renders important aid in the production of fine fruit of any kind, must necessarily be more or less exhausted after a vine, bush, or tree has produced abundant crops for several successive seasons. For example; a large pear tree or apple tree will frequently yield ten to sixteen bushels of fruit annually. Many trees have produced more than twice these quantities at one crop. After a few seasons, the material that roots must be supplied with, in order to develop fruit, will be more or less exhausted. For this reason fruit begins to fail; and the failure is often attributed to an east wind or some atmospheric influence when, in fact, the sole cause is starvation, arising from an impoverished soil. The remedy is to feed the roots of all kinds of fruit trees with lime, wood ashes, gypsum chip dirt, fish, and anything that will renovate an impoverished soil. It is evident that fruit trees cannot produce fine fruit out of nothing, or out of such material as may be desirable for some other purpose. —Hearth and Home.

Babies are the coupons attached to the bonds of matrimony. The interest is due at random.

If you go into a store and find the clerk lying on the counter asleep, you may know that the firm don't advertise. Anything for a quiet life.

An honest dame in New York, standing beside the corpse of her deceased husband, bewailing, in piteous tones, his untimely departure, observed, "It's a pity he's dead; for his teeth are as good as they ever were."

Two physicians at the bedside of a patient, disputing as to the nature of the disease. At last one of them ended the discussion by saying: "Very well, have it your own way now, but the post mortem will show that I am right." The patient was not much encouraged.

To be a woman of fashion is one of the easiest things in the world. A late writer thus describes it. "Buy everything you don't want, and pay for nothing you get; smile on all mankind but your husband; be happy everywhere but at home."

KIND WORDS FOR A "MOTHER."—Despise not thy mother when she is old. Age may waste a mother's beauty, strength, limbs, senses, and estate; but her relation as a mother is as the sun when it goes forth in its might—for it is always the meridian, and knoweth no evening. The person may be gray-headed, but her motherly relation is ever in the flourish. It may be autumn, yea winter with a woman, but with the mother it is always spring. Alas! how little do we appreciate a mother's tenderness while living. How heedless we are of all her anxieties and kindness! But when she is dead and gone—when the cares and coldness of the world come withering to our hearts—when we experience how hard it is to find true sympathy, how few will befriend us in misfortune—then it is that we think of the mother we have lost.

PLANTATION BITTERS.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. Wherever it is introduced it becomes a standard article—a medicinal staple. It is to-day the best and purest tonic, and the most popular medicine in the civilized world—be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Country Stores.
